

Publication Ethics Statement

Publication Ethics Statement

Journal editors are doing a peer-review process based on ethical policies and standards meant to strengthen the quality of scientific research from papers. The authors of papers must have a correct conduct of conducted research regarding to data used, the result obtained, accuracy of calculations, mathematical method used etc. Some examples regarding the incorrect conduct while doing a research are: fabrication of data, idea and/or results plagiarism from other papers without proper citation of these, erroneous presentation of results and conclusions, simultaneous submission of a manuscript to many journals, manuscript must not contain information that haven't been published (without copyright agreement).